Abstract

India is a multiparty, federal, parliamentary democracy with a bicameral parliament. The principle of gender equality is enshrined in the Indian Constitution in its Preamble, Fundamental Rights, Fundamental Duties and Directive Principles. The Constitution not only grants equality to women, but also empowers the State to adopt measures of positive discrimination in favour of women. The Constitution of India grants Fundamental Rights, ensure equality before the law and equal protection of law, prohibits discrimination against any citizen on grounds of religion, race, caste, sex or place of birth, and guarantee equality of opportunity to all citizens in matters relating to employment. 'Women's rights are the edifice on which human rights stand' (Dr APJ Abdul Kalam). The women in India very often have to face discrimination, injustice and dishonour. Though women in India have been given more rights as compared to men, even then the condition of women in India is miserable. However, women often denied of their right to freedom at form part of everyday life such as freedom of movement, access to education and participation in decision-making process. There are many barriers to equality between the sexes. Important factors include gender stereotyping violence against women, social and cultural attitudes, and discriminating laws and practices. Women throughout the world live in constant fear and conditions of deprivation very often for their simple reason that they are women. Violation of women rights is one of the most direct expressions of the power imbalance between men and women. Therefore, any attempt to assess the status and problem of women in a society should start from the social framework; social structure, cultural norms, and value systems are crucial determinants of women's role and their position in society. In respect of the status there is a gap between the theoretical possibilities and their actual realization.

Introduction: India is a pluralistic, republic, multilingual, and a parliamentary system consisting of 29 states and 7 union territories. The country has made considerable progress since independence, economic reform and liberalization measures over the 1990s have led to strong economic growth, increased exports and reduced inflation. Despite major changes that have occurred in the status of women in some parts of the world in recent decades, norms that restrict the women to the home are still powerful in India, defining activities that are deemed appropriate for women. They are, by and large, excluded from political life, which by its very nature takes place in a public forum. Women are under-represented in governance and decision-making positions.

Throughout history, women have generally been restricted to the role of a home-maker; that of a mother and wife. The Indian Constitution guarantees women equality before the law and the equal protection of laws under Article 14 and prohibits discrimination on grounds of sex under Article 15. Despite these guarantees, the position of women in India remains unequal. Women rights violation in India included rape, domestic violence, dowry-related deaths, honor killings, sexual harassment, and discrimination against women remained serious problems. Child abuse and child marriage, trafficking in persons, including widespread bonded and forced labour of children and adults, child prostitution, and forced adult prostitution, are also considered as serious problems in India. The official statistics showed a declining sex-ratio, health status, literacy rate, work participation rate and political participation among women. While on the other hand the spread of social evils like dowry deaths, child marriage, domestic violence, rape, sexual harassment, exploitation of women workers are rampant in different parts of India. Humiliation, rape, kidnapping, molestation, dowry death, torture, wife-beating etc. have grown up over the years.

Legal Provisions for women in India : The Constitution of India provided equality to men and women and also gave priority on special protection to women to realise their interests effectively. Special laws were enacted to prevent indecent representation of women in the media and sexual harassment in workplaces. The law also gives women equal rights in the matter of adoption, maternity benefits, equal pay, good working conditions etc. At the international level, the UN Charter, the Universal Declaration of Human Rights and Convention on Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination against Women (CEDAW) sought to guarantee better legal status to women. The law also provides women with the right to police assistance, legal aid, shelter, and medical care.

The Crimes Identified Under the Indian Penal Code (IPC)

1. Rape (Sec. 376 IPC)
2. Kidnapping & Abduction for different purposes ( Sec. 363-373)
3. Homicide for Dowry, Dowry Deaths or their attempts (Sec. 302/304-B IPC)
4. Torture, both mental and physical (Sec. 498-A IPC)
5. Molestation (Sec. 354 IPC)
6. Sexual Harassment (Sec. 509 IPC)
7. Importation of girls (up to 21 years of age)

Objectives of the Study:

1. To conceptualize certain gender specific violation as Human Rights Violation among women in context of India.
2. To study the various dimensions of human rights violation among women such as crime against women and physical, mental and sexual violence faced by Women
3. To study the Constitutional Provisions and Initiatives taken by government for protecting the rights of women.

Methodology And Data Source:

In this paper, an attempt has been made to study the violation of women rights in India and government initiatives such as law and various Acts for securing and protecting women rights. The methodology of this paper is descriptive and required information's are collected from different secondary sources like books, research articles, different publications relating to women rights , domestic violence , crimes against women and government documents etc.

Inequality between men and women is common in India .This gender gap is mostly seen in five critical areas viz., economic participation, economic opportunity, political empowerment, access to education and reproductive healthcare as mentioned in the report of World Economic Forum (2005). It is increasingly viewed that empowerment of women is an essential prerequisite for poverty alleviation and upholding human rights and for sustainable human development.

Violation of Women Rights in India

Violation of Right to Equality: Discrimination against the girl child starts the moment she enters into the mother's womb. Gender discrimination, female feticide and female infanticide is common in India, so here "right to life" is denied to women. In India, men are always assumed to be superior to women and are given more preference. A girl is considered a burden by parents and they preferred male child because they think only male child is able earn for family and the sources of family income will increase . Since a girl child would be going to her husband's place upon marriage, the parents do not want to waste their resources on her upbringing. Again the demand for large dowry and the huge wedding expenses caused a lot of hardship to the parents. So, the parents preferred a male child as they would be able to bring in large dowry.

Violation of Right to education: Right to Education is the basic fundamental human right. The literacy rate in 2011 census was 74.04%: 65.46% among females and 82.14% among males. The position of women's education in India is bad shape . Specially in rural India women are not aware even the value of education in fact they give more preference on their male child education . Due to large percentage of uneducated women in India, they are not even aware of their basic human rights and can never fight for them. Though female employment rate is high in rural areas, they were engaged mainly in unskilled job but in urban areas due to better education were engaged in variety of jobs. Education especially female education is a major factor influencing health. It leads to better utilization of health. care and greater community/ political participation.

There were numerous reports of schools refusing admission or denying entry to underprivileged students. Across the country more than eight million children between six and 14 years of age remained out of school. UNICEF estimated that school attendance among girls dropped from 86 percent in primary school to 59 percent in secondary school. Potential causes included family pressure, lack of secondary schools in rural areas, and poor quality of school facilities, including a lack of dedicated sanitation facilities for girls.

Violation of Political Right: The political status of women in India is very unsatisfactory, particularly their representation in higher political institutions. In rural India specially among Muslim, they are not even permitted to go for their valuable vote though they are citizen of India. Their political Rights are denied and the representation of women in political participation is very low. The government has made 33% reservation of seats for women in Parliament and Provincial Legislation but in spite of willingness of women they don't get their family support for contrasting election.

Violation of Right to Property: In most of the Indian families, women do not have own property in their own names and unable to share the parental property. Though, women have been given rights to inheritance, but the sons had an independent share in the ancestral property, while the daughter's shares were based on the share received by the father. Hence, father could anytime disinherit daughter by renouncing his share but the son will continue to have a share in his own right. The married daughters facing harassment have no rights in ancestral home.

Violation of Right to reproductive Health: According to the 2012 UN Population Fund State of World Population Report, the maternal mortality ratio was 200 deaths per 100,000 live births in 2010. The major factors influencing the high maternal mortality rate were lack of adequate nutrition, medical care, and sanitary facilities. Most of the women suffer from anemia, low weight due to the inferior quality diet. Though women make cook but still they have to take meal after male member in the family. According to the World Bank report, malnutrition is the major cause of female infertility. Boys are given more nutritious foods like milk, eggs, butter, ghee, fruits, and vegetables as compared to girls. Lack of healthcare facilities and poverty has been resulting in India accounting for 27% of all maternal deaths worldwide.

Violation of Right to Equal Opportunity For Employment and Right to Get Equal Wages for Equal Work:

The law prohibits discrimination in the workplace, but employers paid women less than men for the same job, discriminated against women in employment is common problem in India. Indian labour market is adverse to women workers. It shows that, the role of women in large scale industries and technology based businesses is very limited. But even in the small- scale industries their participation is very low. Only 10.11% of the micro and small enterprises are owned by women today. Statistics show that only 15% of the senior management posts are held by the women. Women mostly work in light industries as they are unsuitable for work in heavy industries. Also, most of the women work in unorganized sector where the wages tends to be very low. About 94% of the total working women are in unorganized sector (ICSSR, Status of Women in India, 1971-74, p.63.).

Crimes Against Women in India: Although women may be victims of any of the crimes such as 'Murder', 'Robbery', 'Cheating' etc, the crimes, which are directed specifically against women, are characterized as 'Crime against Women'. Crimes against women occur every minute; every day and throughout the year, though several such crimes go unreported. A total of 2,44,270 incidents of crime against women (both under IPC and SLL) were reported in the country during the year 2012 as compared to 2,28,650 in the year 2011 recording an increase of 6.4% during the year 2012. These crimes have continuously increased during 2008 - 2012 with 1,95,856 cases in the year 2008, 2,03,804 cases in 2009 and 2,13,585 cases in 2010 and 2,28,650 cases in 2011 and 2,44,270 cases in the year 2012. Women and girls in urban India are also at high risk of gender-based violence. In Delhi, the country's capital, a scan of daily newspapers reveals shocking numbers of cases of violence against women. Assam has reported the highest rate of crime against women at 89.5 during the year 2012 as compared to 41.7 crime rate at the national level.

The table below represents a list of top 5 most dangerous cities in India in terms of crimes against women.

1st	Delhi	16
2nd	Hyderabad	8.1
3rd	Bangalore	6.5

5th	Mumbai	5.8

Child Marriage: Another serious problem that women faced was that of child marriage. Early marriage affected the growth and development of the children. Fixing the minimum age of marriage of men and women by law was voiced as early as the mid-19th century by Ishwar Chandra Vidyasagar and Keshab Chandra Sen. Vidyasagar argued that early marriage was detrimental to the health of women, their efforts, coupled with that of Mahatma Gandhi, resulted in the passing of the Child Marriage Restraint Act, 1929.

Women Trafficking In India: Indian Constitution prohibits all forms of trafficking under Article 23. It has been observed poor helpless families and tribal society have become the main target group of traffickers. Trafficking has become great human problem in all over human society. Trafficking in its widest sense include the exploitation girls by pushing them into prostitution, forced labour or services, slavery or practices similar to slavery and the trade in human organs. In the case of children who have been trafficked or have become victims of child marriages, it violates their right to education, employment and self determination.

Sexual Harassment and Rape Cases: Rape is recognized as a crime that typically is committed by a man forcing another person to have sexual intercourse against their will, intercourse by force (Smith 2004:169). The Government of India acted swiftly, modified laws and had set up fast-track courts to deal with the crime. It is ironical that in spite of awakening, the sexual assaults continue to rise while gender equality is enshrined in the constitution. The NCRB reported 24,206 cases of rape across the country in 2011, the latest year for which data was available; rape is considered an underreported crime. Law enforcement and legal avenues for rape victims were inadequate, overtaxed, and unable to address the issue effectively. Forty percent of all sexual abuse cases in India are incest, and 94% of the incest cases had a known member of the household as the perpetrator.

Molestation: Sexual harassment, sometimes euphemistically called “eve teasing,” remained prevalent. According to the NCRB, 8,570 cases of sexual harassment were reported in 2011, a 14 percent decline from 9,961 cases in 2010; however, there were 42,968 cases of molestation, nearly a 6 percent increase from 40,613 cases in 2010. Cases of rape and molestation remained largely unreported due to social pressure.

Kidnapping & Abduction: Crimes against women were common. According to the NCRB Crime in India 2011 Statistics, there were 228,650 crimes against women in 2011, a 7 percent increase from 2010. These crimes included kidnapping and abduction, molestation, sexual harassment, physical and mental abuse, and trafficking. The NCRB noted that underreporting of such crimes was likely. The NCRB estimated the conviction rate for crimes against women to be 27 percent. Delhi recorded the highest proportion of crimes against women with 4,489 cases, followed by Bengaluru, Karnataka, with 1,890.

Domestic Violence And Dowry Deaths: Globally, one out of every three women faces violence at the hands of their husbands, fathers, or brothers and uncles in their homes. The United Nations defines violence against women as “any act of gender-based violence that results in, or is likely to result in, physical, sexual or psychological harm or suffering to women, including threats of such acts, coercion or arbitrary deprivation of liberty, whether occurring in public or in private life”. “Violence against women is perhaps the most shameful human rights violation. According to the NCRB, in 2011 there were 8,618 reported dowry deaths, mostly bridal deaths at the hand of in-laws for failure to produce a dowry. Uttar Pradesh had the highest number of dowry deaths with 2,322 cases, followed by 1,413 cases in Bihar. The NCRB reported that 23,280 persons were arrested and 6,503 persons were convicted for dowry death in 2011.

Torture (Cruelty By Husband & Relatives): Domestic violence continued to be a problem, and the National Family Health Survey revealed that more than 50 percent of women reported experiencing some form of violence in their home. The NCRB reported that in 2011 there were 99,135 reported cases of “cruelty by husband and relatives,” an increase of 5.4 percent from the previous year. ‘Torture’ cases in the country have increased (99,135 cases) by 5.4% over the previous year (94,041 cases). 19.9% of these were reported from West Bengal (19,772 cases). The highest crime rate of 21.6 was also reported from West Bengal as compared to the National rate at 8.2. Although men, women and children can be abused, in most cases the victims are women. In every country where reliable, large-scale studies have been conducted, results indicate that between 16 and 52% of women have been assaulted by their husbands/partners.

Discussion: While the United Nations continues to promote democracy as the best system to secure women’s dignity and rights, India the world’s largest democracy fails to protect the nation’s women. The Incidence of Violence against women during 2006- 10 and percentage variation in 2010 over 2009 is below in the table.no 2. In this table we can notice that violence against women such as rape, kidnapping and abduction, dowry deaths, torture, molestation immoral trafficking, indecent representation of women have substantially increased in 2010 compared to 2009 .Some recent statistics on women include: India ranks the worst G-20 country in which to be a woman. (TrustLaw, Thomson Reuters). One bride was murdered every hour over dowry demands in 2010. (National Crime Records Bureau). Almost 45 percent of Indian girls are married before they turn 18. (International Center for Research on Women). One in five Indian women, many child mothers, dies during pregnancy or child birth. (The United Nations). Up to 50 million girls are "missing" over the past century due to female infanticide and Foeticide and 66% of women who have experienced physical violence in their lifetimes are divorced, widowed, or deserted . Particularly women and girls from the northeast region of India living in urban centres such as Delhi have reported experiencing social discrimination and marginalization, and many times physical violence. In 2005, according to the North East Support Centre, among the 100,000 people from the northeast living in Delhi 86% had reported racial discrimination and 41% of cases were sexual abuse cases. The Indian economy is the world's tenth-largest by nominal GDP and third-largest by purchasing power parity (PPP). Following market-based economic reforms in 1991, India became one of the fastest-growing major economies; it is considered a newly industrialized country. India is also facing the challenges of poverty , corruption, malnutrition , inadequate public health care. The total land area is 3 287590 km 2 and India ranks 115 in the Human Development Index of 2001 (UNDP, 2001).

Results and Findings of the study:

The major findings of the whole study is that women are in a disadvantageous position in society both in absolute sense and relative to men in the area of access to education, employment and health care. Women face violence inside and outside their family, as well as at the workplace. The Indian girl child is disadvantaged right from birth. The sex ratio for girl children between the age of 0 and 6 years is 927, strengthening the fear that some girl children are never born or have no opportunity to survive. In India, Most of the women do not have household decision making power, do not have freedom of movement and Women are under-represented in governance. In some states such as West Bengal, Orissa, Bihar, Assam and Arunachal Pradesh, between 63 and 85 percent of married women suffer from anaemia (IIPS, 2000 and ORC Macro 2000). Specially in rural areas it is seen that women are unaware about their rights, illiteracy is common in rural areas so most of the women has no idea regarding the schemes launched by government for protecting their rights, their skill development and welfare. So most of the rural women are engaged in unskilled work due to low education which ultimately increases disparity in rural areas. Sexual violence, domestic violence, torture, dowry deaths, rape , crime against women is common in India. So the Violation of Women Rights is serious problem in India. It is one of the most pervasive of human rights violations, denying women and girl’s equality, security, dignity, self- worth, and their right to enjoy fundamental freedoms.

Recommendations

1. There is urgent need to create awareness specially in rural areas to disseminate information on legal safeguards, constitutional provisions , rights, which is provided by the Constitution of India for women. Women should be encouraged and support in their views in decision making process.
2. Strengthening the women empowerment programme which is helpful for women to participate in economic activities and for upgrading women’s skills .
3. Training and professional development of women is very important for professionals who come into contact with the women issues.
4. The NGOs along with the women’s organization can play a great role to eradicate the discrimination prevailing in society and to make the movement for women’s rights stronger. Women should be motivated to participate in political representation.
5. A special emphasize must be given on education female child as she can stand in her own feet. There is need to educate women about the scheme, services, health and accommodation which is especially for women.
6. There is need for more research and study on the status of women which can help in establishing a society based on gender equality.
7. It is also necessary to take responsibility of society ,family member , stakeholder to mitigate violence against women. Media should play a major role organize awareness camps in the interior and remote areas to aware women about health education ,family planning, their rights , affects of early marriage , importance of female education various schemes which is for women. Media can educate and mobilize communities particularly those belonging to marginalized communities
8. The women should be encouraged to organised themselves such as women’s group, self- help group, N.G.O’s etc. Some successful women’s organisations can also act as catalytic agents for encouraging women’s participation in social and political activities. The government should provide financial support and infrastructure to some of the successful women’s organisations to take of the responsibility to safeguards the women’s rights.

Conclusion:

In the conclusion it can be said that in urban area women are more conscious about their rights, education and they are more empowered both economically and socially as compared with rural women. There is urgent need to create awareness in rural areas about the rights, education and government services, and schemes for improvement of their status which is provided specially for women. There are various laws have been made by the legislature in the interests of women. The need of the hour is for the women to realize their rights and be vigilant. Women are the present and the future of India. But today in the world of the 21st century, women have attained a remarkable position in every fields and their life style is improved, they are in no way inferior to men. Women have also started reaching out to state agencies for redressal and justice. India has a remarkable history with women from being the Prime Minister to the Governor and then to the President. Women are now able to doctors, lawyers, and top bureaucrats. Even in business they are occupying high positions. Women are in police force, air force and even scaling the Mount Everest is not beyond their capacity. The social change with the universal wisdom thoughts of great minds like Mahatma Gandhi, Gandhi's thought on religion "... our innermost prayer should be a Hindu should be a better Hindu, a Muslim a better Muslim, a Christian a better Christian" puts the religions in the right perspective in building character. High character and moral strength would make the society courageous and free from anti- social activities.
